

Peter J. Robinson Award for Junior Faculty

This award ($2500) is given annually to one junior faculty member in the SDM who has demonstrated significant scholarly research and/or teaching accomplishments during the past academic year. The award can be used toward any professional development activity chosen by the faculty.

The faculty member should be 0.8 FTE or higher, tenure or non-tenure track, who has been at UCHC for a minimum of one year. Examples of significant accomplishments on which nominations should be based include but are not limited to: outstanding teaching evaluations, the design of an innovative course that was well received by the students, publications in peer review journals, acquisition of research funds from government or private sources, national or international recognition of research or other scholarly accomplishments, and overall outstanding potential for independence in teaching, research or other scholarly activities.

Nominations of junior faculty are solicited from each Division/Section Chair or Center Director in August of each academic year. The awards are announced at the Fall Faculty reception by the Dean.
